Five hundred and seventy-seven head of the shipment of 737 cattle that Joseph Jackson & Co. made to Nodaway County from Texas were sold at the Burlington stock yards at auction yesterday afternoon. Prices ranged from $25 to $54.50 a head, depending upon the size and kind of cattle. The total of the sales from the 577 head was $17,022.

Most of the cattle were sold in lots of twenty-five, although there were a few odd lots. S. R. Barrett of Skidmore was the heaviest purchaser from the standpoint of money paid, purchasing fifty-three steers at $42.50 and $45 a head.

Following is the list of the purchasers, the number of cattle they purchased and the amounts paid:

Mr. Jackson said this morning that he and his associates were pretty well satisfied with the sale but that they felt that their offerings were good and that the purchasers bought them worth the money. It was announced at the sale that it is probable that the company will make another shipment of cattle to the county this fall for the purpose of holding another sale.

GEORGE HARMON ARRESTED AFTER 3 MONTHS ABSENCE

Failed to Appear in Police Court on Charge Made for Action June 25

City police did not forget in nearly three months that George Harmon had been summoned to appear in police court on a charge of drunkenness and that he had never shown up. So when he was found in Maryville last night he was arrested by Ed Wallace, night policeman, and taken before Mayor Fred P. Robinson. The mayor fined Harmon $20 and cost. Harmon could not pay the fine, so he has to work it out on the street at $1 a day, according to the city officials. The cost was the usual $5.65 so it seems that Harmon will have to remain with the city twenty-five and sixty-five hundredth days.

The charge against Harmon was for what he did June 25. At that time he was told to appear in police court but failed to do so. Last night was the first time that the police had seen him in Maryville since.

BATTERY C HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

MEASUREMENTS FOR UNIFORMS ARE TAKEN

MAYNOR SAYS BE A MAN

Must Attend a Majority of drills in Order to Get Pay—No Mixed Uniforms

Battery C held last night its first meeting since its organization Saturday night. Captain Eugene A. Maynor battery commander had Ray O'Grady, acting top sergeant, have the men "fall in" in double ranks and call the roll. Some of the men were prevented from being present by the condition of the roads but at that only seven were reported absent. Captain Maynor explained to the men what would be expected of them in the organization and what would be expected of them when they were on the street and not in uniform. His talk ran like this:

"Uniforms will be issued to you as soon as they arrive. They will not be your property. They will be the property of the state. You are to wear them to all regular drills and formations and at any other time that you please but are not to wear them mixed. If you wear a part of the uniform wear it all.

"When you have on a uniform and you meet one of your officers who has on the uniform you salute him but do not do it at any other time. At all times with the exception of when we are at drills I am simply Cap. Maynor or just plain Maynor and for the other officers it is just Phares, Raynor and Crawford, and no salute or title is necessary. Your officers are made of the same clay that you are and simply have authority over you at drills because you have elected them to the offices which they hold.

"You must attend the majority of the drills in order to collect your pay. But when there is an excuse for your not attending notify the top sergeant and you will be excused. You will be paid every three months. The pay will be sent to the battery commander and you will receive it from him.

"When you are on the street whether in uniform or not remember that you are a man and walk like a man, looking everyone squarly in the face. It will not hurt you, it will be good for you. You are as good as the other fellow and walk up to him like you are. Don't slouch up to a man with a cigaret in your mouth."

After the captain had given the instructions and the remarks he told the men what is meant by standing at attention and gave the position of a soldier. The battery was then dismissed by O'Grady and the members made a mad rush to get in line to be measured for their uniforms. Martin Lewis of the Corwin-Murrin clothing company was there with his tape and took the measurements, calling off the numbers and sizes of the different garments. As he called them off Harold O'Banion, acting company clerk took them down and from this the uniforms will be ordered.

The roster for the non-commissioned officers had not been completed last night but will probably be ready by the next drill night, Tuesday of next week.

Washington, Sept. 20—The house this afternoon passed the soldiers bonus bill over the president's veto. The vote was 258 to 54. The action, however, is not regarding as constituting much, as the bill now goes to the senate where enemies of the bonus are strongest and where the veto will be sustained, thus effectually killing it so far as the present session of congress is concerned.

ELKS ARE TO HAVE MINSTREL SHOW

GIVES THEATRE GOERS CHANCE TO SEE FAVORITES

TO BE IN TWO PARTS

Cast to be Entirely Made Up from Members of the Club—Meeting October 3

The Elks Club voted at a regular meeting held last night to produce a minstrel show sometime in the month of November. This minstrel is to be on the order of the ones that the Elks have produced in years past and some of the old heads at the game will be used. This will give the theatre going public a chance to see such actors as Ed Keck, F. P. Reuillard, Bert Raines and others once more.

The committee in charge of the minstrel is composed of J. L. Kraft, Eugene Yehle and George Sillers. The program will be divided into two parts. The first will be the minstrel and the second will be—well, it is a secret, Mr. Kraft says.

The Club voted to spare no expense in the production of the minstrel. Everything possible will be done to make it the leading event of the year. The cast is to be entirely from the Elks Club. Separate committees under the general committee will be appointed to have charge of the scenic effects, the costume and the cast.

It is planned to have the music handled by men who are capable and who are masters at the game. Possibly some of the faculty of the Conservatory of Music will be used. More details will be announced later.

October 3 there will be a meeting of the Elks Lodge at which time there will be eats and a smoker.

Students and townspeople who attended the opening assembly this morning at the State Teachers College, where Mr. Richman sang some songs, say that he has a wonderfully fine voice. AN EXPLODED THEORY

Some people of a radical tendency have been maintaining that one reason for the industrial depression of 1921, was that our government discouraged trade with Russia. Encourage commerce with that country and business here will take a boom, they said.

Reecnt figures show that American exports to Russia for the past six months amounted to $11,756,282, but this country imported only $21,609 from Russia in that period. These figures show to what an amazing prostration that once great and powerful country of Russia has been reduced by the soviet fanatics. Possessing the richest land in the world, formerly constituting one of the great reservoirs of the world's food supply, it can not now feed itself, much less find exports to pay for the products of other lands.

There will be mighty few goods exported to Russia, until the Russians overthrow their communist tyrants, and become able to produce some kind of commodities with which to pay for the products of other countries.

TEACHING WOMEN TO SPEND

The Ohio state federation of women's clubs is conducting a campaign to teach women how to spend money. They figure that women spend 85 per cent of the money of the country, yet they are not greatly trained to handle this vast sum. Several associations of retail merchants are co-operating in this effort, feeling that the women should be educated not to overload themselves with things that they do not need.

It seems singular that vast sums are spent to teach young people how to earn money, but almost nothing is spent on teaching them how to spend it. This may account for the fact that such a large proportion of the earnings of the country goes into extravagant luxuries, and why the majority of people never get ahead financially.

It begins to look like the baseball world's series games will be played in New York only.

Revolutionists are usually made up of so many parts indignation and the balance excitement.

The American people are so thoroughly wedded to the borrowing idea that they borrow everything including trouble.

The Turk, who seemed to be down and out at the close of the war, has staged a come back that may well interest the world, and emphasizes the fact that a man is not necessarily out because he is down.

A significant fact is found in the recent purchase by the M. K. & T. railroad of fifty new engines all of the oil burning type. The M. K. & T. not only runs through some of the greatest coal fields in the country but owns thousands of acres of coal land. The uncertainty of the coal supply in recent years has also caused many heavy consumers of coal in the industrial world to turn to oil and still others will eventually turn to electricity.

In spite of the fact that the Republican party was swept out of power by the people on account of the indefensible Payne-Aldrich tariff, the tariff of the present Congress have audaciously come back with a bill that for high taxes will make the Payne-Aldrich bill look like a piker. The tariff on sugar, for instance, is 37 per cent higher than under the old bill. It is estimated that the cost of sugar will be increased two cents per pound or $220,000,000 per year to the American consumers over present prices.

FATHER PLACIDUS LIKES FILMS OF C. OF C.

Said 230 People Saw Them When They Were Run at Conception Sunday Evening

Father Placidus of the Conception Abbey sent the following letter to George A. Pickens, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, following the run of the film "Agriculture in Nodaway County," that was made at Conception Sunday evening:

Dear Mr. Pickens:

We showed your films last night to 230 people, all from the farming community here around; college boys and those at the monastery were unable to see them, for which I am very sorry, for the pictures were very fine, a very great improvement from what they were when you sent them over the last time about a year and a half ago, I think. I am also sorry that owing to the shortness of time I was unable to advertise them better. You know I phoned you at the beginning of last week and since that time could reach our people only through the local paper. The films are like an instruction book for our farmers, and I know that all enjoyed them greatly.

Thanking you for your kindness and with best wishes, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Father Placidus.

BRITISH VESSEL QUITS HONOLULU; TOO "DRY"

Honolulu, Sept. 20.—Rigid enforcement of the prohibition act has caused the withdrawal of the British auxiliary schooner Tangaroa, which operates as a supply boat to the Fanning Islands, with Honolulu as a base port. The boat will now operate from Auckland, New Zeland, as a base. Previously supplies, including liquor, have been brought from New Zealand by British transpacific steamers and transferred to the Tangaror in the port of Honolulu. Recent orders from Washington prohibit the transfer of liquor in this port, and the British boat has been withdrawn for this reason.

REED SAYS LET BREWSTER STATE HIS OWN POSITION

Republican Candidate's Proposal Both Make Public Liquor Ideas Merely Draws a Reply

Washington, Sept. 20—Senator Reed of Missouri arrived in Washington yesterday afternoon, his train late but in time to vote against the tariff bill, took a hot shot at his opponent, R. R. Brewster, in a short statement, and said he hoped to be able to leave Washington Friday afternoon to begin his campaign for re-election.

Senator Reed said he had hoped to get time to make one speech summing up his objections to the tariff, which the late train prevented today, before returning to Missouri.

The verbal shot at Mr. Brewster, his opponent, was caused by a telegram from St. Louis, stating that Mr. Brewster had, in answer to a question from a newspaper man, agreed to state his views on what change, if any, would be made in the Volstead act if Senator Reed would likewise release his views at the same time. Senator Reed was asked if he would consent to such a plan.

He gave this statement as his reply:

"Tell Mr. Brewster to make his campaign to the people of Missouri and I will make mine. Mr. Brewster must have certain views regarding the Volstead Act. Upon these views fully expressed he should be willing to go to the people. Why does he hesitate about taking the public into his confidence? Why does he propose to release his opinions only upon condition that I express mine at the same moment of time? I have already stated my position. I shall do so again at the proper time. Let Mr. Brewster proceed in his own way and his own time.

"His request that I shall speak at the moment he does rather suggests that he hesitates to take a position. It also indicates either that he has no pronounced views or that he is willing to sacrifice them to get votes. The conduct of a great public campaign, involving important principles of government, bears little resemblance to the maneuvering of tricky horse jockeys as the starting tap."

WORK SUCCESSFUL AT TRENTON

The Trenton Daily Republican had the following in their Monday's issue about the Rev. C. C. James, who comes to Maryville from Trenton as pastor of the First M. E. Church:

Although the change in the case of Rev. James was expected because of the direct wish of Bishop Quayle, an effort was made by the board to retain him. His work here has been successful during his two years' ministry and the church was gathering together for a better year and a greater future, the financial conditions being stronger at the close this year than the few years directly preceeding. His going to Maryville is none other than a promotion for it is a larger charge and one in which he will do much work among the students, a special work in which he has few equals in the conference.

Rates in New Tasiff Act Are Highest in History of Tariffs

Treasury experts estimate that the new tariff act will yield about $400,000,000 a year in revenue, one-half from these four sources; sugar, $87,000,000; raw wool, $63,000,000; tobacco, $35,000,000 and laces and embroideries, $15,000,000.

Joseph S. McCoy, actuary of the treasury, figures that in active operation the effective equivalent ad valorems will average slightly below those in the famous Payne-Aldrich act. The average of the rates, as written, however, is declared to be slightly above the average of those in the 1909 act.

Rates in some of the schedules are declared to be the highest in the history of American tariffs, while those in other schedules are estimated to be lower than in any other protective act. In the highest classes are placed sugar, raw wool, silk, laces and embroideries, cutlery, agricultural products and provisions, and dyes, synthetic chemicals, medicinals and other products of coal tar. The flax, hemp and jute schedule is estimated at only slightly more than that of the existing democratic law, while the cotton schedule is described by the experts as the lowest in any previous protective tariff. Also, it is asserted the duties on manufactured woolen articles are below those of any other similar act.

Comparatively low rates also have been written into the wood, earthenware, metal, paper and books and sundries schedules, according to these authorities. Except for the coal tar products, the chemical schedule also is estimated at below that of the Payne-Aldrich measure.

Powers to President

This bill marks a distinct departure in American tariff making, in that the president is given broad authority over taxes at the customs houses. Upon investigations he may increase or decrease any rate in the bill by 50 per cent should that be necessary to equalize the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

In addition the executive may declare American valuation as the basis of assessing of ad valorem duties. In event such a basis were used the duties could not be increased, but the experts estimate that the actual change from the foreign valuation to the American valuation would bring about an average increase of 100 per cent in the rates. After declaring such valuation the president could, however, reduce any duty by 50 per cent.

The tariff commission is authorized to assist to president in carrying out these so-called flexible tariff provisions, and would make exhaustive investigations and hold hearings at which all interested parties would be given opportunity to submit evidence and argument. This is the "scientific tariff" feature of the new bill.

ROSES IN DECEMBER

By MILDRED WHITE

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Alan had been a rapid and tempestuous wooer. And when after their engagement, he settled down to an absorbed life of business, Peggy just could not understand it. At first, she was too proud to inquire; then as evening passed with Alan absent from her side, she reproved him with the fact of his indifference. Alan was grievously surprised.

"Why, dear," he said, "don't you realize that I am hurrying now as fast as I can to make a nest for you?"

For the time being Peggy was placated. Then came the occasion of the Wellstown picnic, and Alan failed to arrive.

Alan had forgotten; a big business deal had come up unexpectedly at the last moment, he explained, to take his attention. He would be with her as soon as a car could bring him. But angrily Peggy replied—she would go on with the crowd; and she went, only it was not exactly the crowd who accompanied Peggy, but one particular and delighted member.

Roy Ralph had long enviously regarded the lucky, as he called him, Alan. Roy was jolly and generous, and—prompt. Thereafter he frequently and joyously substituted for the absent and unknowing Alan.

"For if he does not care to inquire how I amuse myself during his satisfied hours in the city, why should I enlighten him?" Alan's fiancee asked herself.

One of the crowd, hailed the busily engaged young man one day.

"Look here, Alan, how long do you intend to let Roy make hay while your sun shines?"

Though Alan laughed, the thought rancored.

"What did he mean?" he questioned Peggy.

She laughed, "That you have a rival, Alan."

"But an engaged man may not have a rival," he answered troubled, "you belong to me, Peg. That's why I'm working so hard to earn a home."

"Better think of me, then, once in awhile," she smilingly warned him.

Alan kissed her, comfortably assured.

But when again she was obliged to call him up regarding the entertainment course, and their tickets engaged for the evening, Alan concerned with a venture that promised much, answered abruptly, that he would be unable to go, and she must provide herself with other friendly escort. Peggy was more than annoyed; tears, not only of disappointment, coursed down her cheeks. Love was not so lax, she told herself bitterly—Alan did not really love her. Then indignation turned sorrow to anger.

"When I shall call you again, Alan Moore," she said, "or when I shall want to see you—" trembling Peggy considered an impossibility. "Roses will grow in December."—"in our garden," added the flushed and turbulent Peggy.

The telephone receiver snapped into its hook. But the very, very strangest thing was, that Alan appeared to take her at her word.

And when Roy again obligingly offered to take Alan's place as escort to his surprise and her own, he was curtly refused.

Moreover, as weeks passed, the girl seemed to lose interest in the gay little affairs that had formerly delighted her. Here also, Alan had deliberately absented himself.

It was two months since she had seen Alan's face. But of course, she told herself miserably, he never had loved her. Otherwise, it would be impossible for him to stay away. And at this time Alan was telling himself, and as miserably, that of fcourse Peg never had loved him— Otherwise, why should she have used such a hopeless simile, as roses growing in December in her garden.

Peggy, coming around the corner beneath Alan's office windows, looked up with the old hope that ever promptly turned to disappointment. He was not near the window.

Now, Alan's business absorption was to dull an aching heart. So, went the sad world until—December. Both young people in their separate places thought of Peggy's idle words. Peggy, by her own fireside, jumped up hastily:

"I'll do it," she remarked to the amazed cat, dislodged from her knee.

Alan banged shut his office desk.

"I'm going home now," he informed his stenographer.

Upon the way home he was obliged to pass Peggy's house. Tonight, a yellow placard tacked on the veranda post, forcibly attracted his attention from some distance. He passed close to the veranda post; the placard read simply and astonishingly.

"Alan,—please go to the back door." Slowly, wonderingly, Alan went. At first he was unable to take in the situation. Then, illuminatingly, it burst upon him. For, in Peggy's garden in December, a rose tree grew in its decorated pot. Masterfully Alan rang the rear door bell; instantly, Peggy was at his side—in another moment, in his claiming arms.

"I set the tree out as you came alone," she explained. "Darling!" eloquently answered Alan.

Motor Trucks Extend Food Supply Radius 50 Miles

HERBERT HOOVER says: "The motor truck has given every town an extended radius of food supply by some 50 miles, and thereby protects such vital matters as milk and perishables."

Formerly 10 miles was as far as the farmer could profitably haul his produce. The increasing number of motor trucks on the farm is making the farmer more and more independent of other forms of transportation. It is extending a primary market five times, giving the farmer greater security and doing much to insure him the full profit from his crops and produce.

E. E. La Schum, Superintendent of Equipment of the American Railway Express Company, says that while the average mileage of trucks is about 40 miles per day, they are capable of making 100 miles without undue strain.

This means that in every truck there are 60 unused daily transportation miles, which can be used when emergency calls.

The farmers of the 10 states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) own 46,582 trucks. These represent unused, potential transportation of 2,794,920 miles per day—quite enough to make the farmer feel reasonably independent and to make the city dweller secure.

The value of these trucks to their owners, and to the community, depends upon an ample supply of gasoline and oils, instantly available when needed.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), recognizing its duty to the public, has organized its distributing facilities to a point where only a complete breakdown of public utilities can prevent its supplying these trucks with oil and gasoline needed, no matter in what corner of the 10 states they may be.

In the cycle of service to which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is committed, the truck plays just as important a part as the automobile and the tractor.

This entire organization is working as one man, to perfect a complete service, and to maintain this service at such a maximum of efficiency that no piece of automotive machinery in the Middle West need ever be delayed a single moment of usefulness through lack of suitable petroleum products.

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF THE YEAR HELD AT COLLEGE

L. A. Richman Sang and President Lamkin and Mr. Blagg Made Talks

The first assembly of the year at the State Teachers College was held at 10 o'clock this morning. The program rendered was an interesting one. The first thing was a series of announcements made by Prof. Harry A. Miller. Then he read a passage of scripture and offered a short prayer.

Following this Charles R. Gardner, head of the Conservatory of Music, lead the student body in singing which lasted about ten minutes.

L. A. Richman, instructor of voice, then entertained the students with three vocal solos. Mr. Richman has a wonderful baritone vocie and he immediately made himself popular with the students and faculty of the College.

President Uel W. Lamkin was next introduced. He spoke for about twenty minutes. In his talk Mr. Lamkin dwelt on the growth of the college both in numbers of students and in the broadening of the several departments. He also spoke highly of Eugene A. Maynor, the new coach at the College, and of Mr. Richman.

W. A. Blagg, president of the Board of Regents of the College, was next called on and made a short speech in which he too complimented the College and spoke of its growth.

There will be a short assembly every week at the College and once a month it is planned to have a special convocation of the student body with a fitting program.

SAYS CHRIST SAVED HIM

Dr. Samuel G. Benson, who is now at the Y. M. C. A. in Brussels for the purpose of holding a votive healing mission, and is organizing a world movement for the healing of sickness by prayer. He is the author of a war book entitled "Back From Hell," the result of his experiences as a relief worker in Belgium. Having resigned his parish in the United States, Doctor Benson went to Belgium as a relief worker in 1915. He was seized by the Germans because of his assistance to Belgian refugees. On Easter Wednesday, 1915, at 11:15 a. m., he was to be shot in the Place Royale as a spy; but as the German officer was starting to blindfold his eyes, Christ—Doctor Benson says—suddenly stood between them, miraculously saving his life. He was expelled from the country by the Germans before sundown.

Steal Potatoes and Replant Vines.

WHEN THE BIRDS FLY NORTH

One of the Great Mysteries of Nature Is the Migration of the Winged Voyagers.

Have you ever arisen before the birds awakened you, when the dawn sky was still flecked with clouds that drifted, it may be, across the face of a dying moon, and heard far, far above you, the speech of unseen voyagers going north?

It is a strange, a memorable sensation, to look into the blank sky while your ears tell you that the aerial migration is winging past. Perhaps, with a glass, you can pick out the specks against a rosy cloud or the moon disk. Birds, it may be no larger than a humming bird, hundreds of them, thousands of them, all the spring, threading their way for endless miles by the gleam of a river far below, the dark patch of a mountain forest, the haze and glow of a town—straight, sometimes, to last year's nest.

When their little voices drop from the mist or the darkness, bearing a message of their passing, it is a poor soul, indeed, which does not thrill in answer, and in answer to the sweet twitter of some flock of tiny warblers no less than the heroic clang of the Canada geese, flying in battle formation with a sound like the dragging of a chain over some vast corrugation of the air.—Walter Prichard Eaton in Harper's Magazine.

Toxicological Studies.

Poison squads are not always made up of humans or guinea pigs. Famous toxicologists have gained their lore by hiring companies of men to whom they have fed many kinds of poisons. Some of the men have gotten over it, but they generally showed the effects of their diet. Other scientists attack a lonesome-looking guinea pig or a squad of guinea pigs and give them enough diseases to fill several hospitals. Tiny germs that cannot be seen with the naked eye are fed and housed and studied for the benefit of mankind.—New York Sun.

TESTS OF WATER TO BE MADE AT STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Prof. C. C. Leeson's Class to Assist the Nodaway County Health Department

Arrangements have been made whereby the advanced class in bacteriology at the State Teachers College, taught by Prof. C. C. Leeson, will make the tests of water samples for the Nodaway County Health Department, Dr. Claude P. Fryer said this morning.

The College in offering this service eliminates the trouble and expense of shipping the samples to the state testing laboratories at Columbia and makes it possible to get returns on the samples in a much shorter time. In the past, when the samples have been sent to Columbia, it was necessary to wait a week to get returns and some cases they were unsatisfactory at that, owing to the fact that the containers might be delayed in the shipments and that the ice in which they were packed would be melted. It will be possible to get the returns from the class at the college within from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, Dr. Fryer says.

Those desiring to have analysis made of the water they are using may call at the office of the department and get the information necessary for making the tests.

MONKEY MURPHY GIVES SOME SHOW IN MARYVILLE

Does a Lot of Tricks—Owner Says Surprising to Find How Many Have Never Seen One

"Murphy," a monkey owned by A. H. Richards, who is here demonstrating a cleaner, attracted a lot of attention in Maryville yesterday and today with the things that he does under the direction of his owner. In the demonstrations of the product "Murphy" does a lot of things that a person does, even to the smoking of a pipe. A demonstration was given yesterday at the Empire Theater. Murphy is an unusually large monkey.

Mr. Richards says that it is surprising, with all there is written about the monkey and as much as his name is used as a byword that there are many people throughout the country who have never seen one. He said that he stopped at one house where two of the children were grown up and married and no one in the family had seen a monkey.

BEARCATS HOLDING FIRST REAL SCRIMMAGE TODAY

Practiced Last Night at the Armory—Dope Is That It's to be a Fighting Team

The first real scrimmage of the College football squad is being held this afternoon on the College gridiron. The men have been working out unusually hard for the past week and Coach Eugene A. Maynor has given out the signals and formations. The shoulder pads and head gears were issued to the men today and a tough old practice will be held.

Last night the squad held signal practice for an hour in the new Armory building. The coach is working in every minute possible for practice in order to get his men in as good shape as possible for the opening game of the season at Springfield a week from Friday.

Not much has been said about the prospects for a winning team this year. Every year the dope is that the College will have a winning team. This year the dope is that the College will have a fighting team.

If the men give all they have and lose it doesn't matter but it looks like they won't lose. They may not win every game but it is a safe bet that the Bearcats won't go through the season with a series of goose-eggs to their credit.

STEAMER BURIED ON FARM

Farmer Plows Into Hulk in Former Bed of Missouri River

Hamburg, Iowa, Sept. 20—Considerable interest and no little excitement resulted from the "find" of a farmer living about five miles southwest of here.

This farmer, plowing, reported that he had uncovered a steamboat that had been sunk when the farm was the old bed of the Missouri River.

Especial interest attaches to the story from the fact that it had been a matter of talk for many years that a steamer was sunk at this place which was loaded with rare old whiskey.

Rumors over the "find" are that the owner of the farm has written to the federal government inquiring what disposition he could legally make of the liquor if there should be any in the old tub when it was fully explored.
